

Mikkel Bech

"Design is where creativity meets function, and development brings ideas to life - I strive to master both."

Personal summary

My name is Mikkel Bech, and I am currently studying Multimedia Design at EASV. I have a passion for both design and development, aiming to bridge creativity with functionality. With a strong interest in user experience, web development, and visual storytelling, I aspire to craft engaging digital experiences that are both aesthetically appealing and highly functional. I am continuously expanding my skills in design, coding, and digital media, with the goal of becoming a versatile designer and developer.
